Super Hawaiian Night!

The Biggest Hawaiian Event in Nagoya at The Nagoya Botanical Garden

Coming up next month the Nagoya Botanical Garden will hold a massive Hawaiian Festival. The Super Hawaiian Night is actually four days of food, music fun and more and it coincides with the popular Night Zoo where you get to experience the zoo when all the nocturnal animals come out.

First and foremost Super Hawaiian Night features LOTS of Hawaiian music and dancing. Hawaiian dance and music have many meanings, many of which come from nature and connect people to it. 1000 ukulele players and hula dancers will perform over the 4 days at both stages. Also Yuki Alani Yamauchi, a famous ukulele player, will perform on Aug 13th.

Another big part of this event is the real Hawaiian flowers. The stage will be filled with illuminated Hawaiian flowers. Some rare Hawaiian flowers will also be available for sale. In addition they are holding seminars where you can learn how to grow and look after flowers.

And of course there will be plenty of food. There will be some food trucks selling Hawaiian food and drinks, like a Hawaiian beer garden with some tables set up by the pool. Enjoy eating and drinking while listening to Hawaiian music.

If you want to dine in, go to the upscale Garden Terrace Higashiyama, they will be offering a "Super Hawaiian Plate" for ¥2500 that includes your choice of beer or soft drinks. It's a gorgeous restaurant and you get the best view of the pool and the stage. Also the pool-side restaurant is open late during the Night ZOO season.

Hawaiian Super Night coincides with the wildly popular Night Zoo event which takes place August 4, 5, 6 and 11, 12 and 13th. The zoo and the botanical gardens are connected so entry to the park allows you entry to both the Super Hawaiian night as well as the night zoo. The Night Zoo is a really fun chance to see the animals after hours and some of them are even lit up with special illuminations. Zookeepers will be on hand to give talks as well.
